

"The reason I started working in the garden was because I got into a little trouble. The reason I kept working was because I fell in love with it. I like that it takes time and you have to use your hands. I also like the butterflies. That might not sound very manly, but they make me feel peaceful." – Harold Brown, 9th Grade, Stony Point High; Round Rock, TX

"Watching monarchs fly is inspirational." – Emily, 5th Grade, Holland Hall Elementary; Tulsa, OK

Quotes from Students

"Butterflies tickle and they are amazing. They make me want to learn more. Butterflies have opened the world to me." - Kollier, 3rd Grade, Sts. Peter and Paul Catholic School; Wellston, OH

"...it was then I knew my passion must turn into action...I designed habitats for monarchs locally, educated others about pesticide use on the plants they need for survival...I plan to stay true to my mission and enter the field of conservation ecology..." – Hannah Krause, 12th Grade, Conrad Weiser High; Robesonia, PA

"I never liked anything about nature before but now I love some things about nature. I have learned that nature is important to everyone and that is why I like it. We all need nature and nature needs us." - 8th Grade Student, Nicholas Residential Treatment Center; Dayton, OH
